

i take the bus and train to and from work 5 days a week and am annoyed by people who feel that they have free reign to use their cell phone in such close proximity to the rest of the riders. we don't want to hear their high volume, one sided conversation about their weekend or their plans for the evening. we don't know them so we don't care to hear what they are doing. it's not ok to have this sort of noise pollution for a short bus or train ride so it's certainly not acceptable on a plane ride of any length! on a plane you have nowhere to go to escape the cell phone user. it's bad enough that you barely have leg and elbow room. do you really need someone talking on their cell phone just inches away from your ear? believe me when i say that, i'll be the first one to throw their phone down the aisle and no flight attendant will be prepared to deal with the mutiny from passengers faced with loud, obnoxious cell phone users. please do us all a favor and don't allow cell phone use on planes.

Thanks for listening.
